HINGE-FLEX™ features offset springs (coils) in the 368 coil bedding units.

The number of coils, as well as the number and placement of edge supports, vary based on the size of the mattress. The weight of the toppers range from 1.3 to 1.8 pounds per cubic foot, the latter representing a higher quality material. Note that innerspring weight measurements refer to pounds while thickness (height) measurements refer to inches.

THE LAYERS MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Our TWO-SIDED construction significantly extends the life of your mattress.

What is the Fire Barrier?

The fire barrier is a blend of inherent rayon and polyester which is naturally fire retardant, not chemically treated. It is placed directly underneath the fabric of the quilted cover for maximum effect.

All of our Innerspring mattresses are TWO-SIDED allowing flipping and rotating the mattress regularly. This promotes extended wear of the mattress as well as alleviating body impressions.

The first layer - the netting - provides a border between the steel coils and the fiber pad to eliminate "cupping" of upper material. Similarly, the fiber pad, just above the netting, supports and stabilizes the bottom topper and further protects it from the steel coils. Although its thickness varies by product, the polyurethane bottom topper further stabilizes the mattress and provides the "firmness" offered by our Deluxe and Solitaire units. Second toppers, consisting of convoluted polyurethane, are standard on our higher-end products and offer additional cushion and comfort to the mattress. The outermost layer - the quilted cover - varies by weight and thickness, depending on the mattress.
